

A harvest reflection:

In order to be grateful for what we have we need to recognize when we have enough.

A man had a vacant piece of land next to his house. He put up a sign
'THIS LAND WILL BE GIVEN TO THE ONE WHO IS TRULY SATISFIED'.

A wealthy man was passing by.
'Since this man is happy to part with his land,
I should claim it before someone else does.
I am rich, and have all I need, so I qualify'.

He knocked on the door.
'Are you truly satisfied?' asked the landowner
'I am', answered the rich man, 'I have all I need'.

'Friend', said the landowner
'if you have all you need,
what do you want the land for?'

The prayer of the frog. Vol 2. Anthony deMello