"Make your voices heard" - Catholic Bishops of Northern Ireland

The Catholic Bishops of Northern Ireland have issued a pastoral reflection on the Northern Ireland Assembly Elections on 5 May, addressing: Importance of voting; Poverty in society; Rights and dignity of unborn children; Effectively responding to refugees fleeing war in Ukraine; Committing to safeguarding creation and sustaining our environment; Respect for religious freedom and faith in the public square including for Catholic and other faith-based schools; and, Political stability serving the common good.

Special parish collection for Ukraine raises €3.2 million

Archbishop Eamon Martin of Armagh and Archbishop Dermot Farrell of Dublin, as President and Vice-President of the Irish Catholic Bishops' Conference, have thanked parishes across Ireland for their extraordinary generosity in raising over €3.25 million (to date) in response to the humanitarian crisis in Ukraine since the outbreak of war.

The archbishops said, "As Christians, our Gospel imperative is to support the victims of this appalling humanitarian crisis. The large funds raised by Irish parishes will be channelled to assist those who are suffering such devastation to their lives and livelihoods. Parishes across Ireland have responded with enormous generosity and compassion and we are most grateful for that. The proceeds of this special parish collection are already being sent to the international Catholic Church agency, Caritas Internationalis, which is currently operating on the ground in Ukraine and its surrounding areas."

Bishop Denis Nulty endorses Aspal - a new app and digital platform which enables people to deepen their faith

Bishop Denis Nulty, Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin and Apostolic Administrator of Ossory Diocese, has endorsed Aspal, a new cutting edge digital platform for faith formation, which is now available for the benefit of people who wish to engage with and learn more about their Catholic faith. Aspal, which is the brainchild of the Adult Faith Development Group of the Diocese of Ossory in collaboration of Saint Patrick's Pontifical University, Maynooth, offers an app and digital platform to allow people to deepen their faith at a time of their convenience.

Launching the app Rev Dr Dermot Ryan, director of the Ossory Adult Faith Development Group, said, "This is but the first step on our digital journey to serve the Church across Ireland by providing the very best faith formation to users and to do so in a way that makes learning more accessible by deepening our knowledge and love of God."

Aspal, the word for 'Apostle' in the Irish language, is so called to remind all those who participate that they are, by virtue of their Baptism, called to be sent – sent to share with others their faith. Upcoming courses will include one for Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharist and one on Synodality. All of this has been made possible by the collaboration of a very talented team and the invaluable support of the Benefact Trust which has grant-aided the development with over €50,000 of support. For more see www.Aspal.ie or download from the App Store or Google Play.

"Young people are beacons of hope in their parishes and communities" – Bishop Brendan Leahy

Speaking as he presented 50 John Paul II Awards to young people from across the Limerick diocese, Bishop Brendan Leahy said that the young people stepped up during the Covid-19 pandemic to support others and this was particularly encouraging. Bishop Leahy said, "I was delighted to be able to present these John Paul II Awards to such inspirational young people. The work they have been doing in their local areas is tremendous and brings such richness to their parishes, their local communities and to themselves. For many there is a realisation that young people have a significant role to play in the Church, this gives me great hope for the future."

The John Paul II medals were presented by Bishop Leahy at an award ceremony in Scoil Pól in Kilfinane, the first one since the outbreak of Covid-19. The award programme, which is sponsored by the Knights of Saint Columbanus, is coordinated by the pastoral outreach team in the Limerick Diocesan Centre.

Priests are at the frontline caring for the sick, the bereaved, and staying with their people during war - Bishop Cullinan

The chair of the Council for Vocations of the Irish Bishops' Conference, Bishop Alphonsus Cullinan, issued a message of appreciation to priests during Holy Week. He said, "During the holiest week of the Church year, I wish to express my admiration, on behalf of the Council for Vocations, for what priests do and have done, particularly over the past two years. Priests have formed part of the frontline who have cared for the sick, the bereaved, and the lonely, as well as carrying on numerous other duties. Now, while for many in this part of the world life is returning to normal in the aftermath of the pandemic, the work of the priest continues, in season and out of season. Every day in Ukraine we see that priests are staying with their people in the dreadful conditions brought by war in that country."

Bishop Cullinan continued, "In spite of all that is going on and has gone on, priests have given inspirational witness. We pray that this witness will inspire young men to follow Jesus Christ in this particular vocation and that in caring for the spiritual lives of others."
